My dear professor Bolgiani,

You were so good as to write to me in July of 1973 to invite me to contribute to the Rivista di storia e letteratura religiosa a survey of work on the Platassaron since the work of Curt Peters. I wrote on August 6, 1973 acknowledging the invitation and undertaking to let you have a first instalment of such a survey by this month. I have not heard from you that you received this, and I should be grateful to have some word from you to this effect.

Meanwhile, I can report progress as follows. I had the opportunity to deliver two lectures upon this topic at the University of Aarhus, and thus brought my notes much closer up to date than when I wrote to you last year. I shall endeavour in the coming months of May and June to type out my work in fair copy with footnotes: and shall send it to you, always provided that you still wish to have it.

With every good wish, and a hope to hear soon,

I am, Yours sincerely,

J. Neville Birdsall
